CHANCE RESIDENTS EXPLORE THE GREAT OUTDOORS

Summer is in full swing, and the residents of the CHANCE program have been making the most of the season with fun, engaging activities that combine learning and adventure. Most recently, the group set out on an educational trip to the breathtaking Fall Creek Falls State Park, where they participated in a guided Forest Ecology hike.

As they journeyed through the lush trails, residents learned about the unique ecosystem of the forest, discovering more about native plant and animal life, the importance of conservation, and the role each of us plays in protecting our natural surroundings. The experience provided not only a hands-on learning opportunity but also a chance to relax and soak in the park's stunning scenery—from cascading waterfalls to peaceful woodland paths.

It was a day full of fresh air, discovery, and meaningful connection with nature—just one of the many ways the CHANCE program is enriching lives this summer!
