IN REMEMBRANCE

We honor the memory of three extraordinary individuals who passed within the last year, each of whom served on UCDD and UCHRA boards and committees, among others, over the years. Their dedication, service, and leadership made a lasting impact on the Upper Cumberland region. Though they are no longer with us, the work they championed and the lives they touched remain a lasting testament to their commitment.

Marie Ferran

Marie was a dedicated advocate and community leader in the Upper Cumberland region. A graduate of the University of Memphis' Cecil C. Humphreys School of Law, she worked tirelessly as an advocate for the elderly. Her commitment to service extended into every facet of her life. Marie, once the Executive Director for Aging Services for the Upper Cumberland, Inc., advocated for healthcare equality, served on numerous boards for organizations assisting women and at-risk youth, and volunteered extensively with local theater groups.

Marvin Lusk

A U.S. Air Force veteran and two-time Tennessee State University graduate, Marvin served for 41 years as Vice-President of TCAT McMinnville while operating the Lusk Family Farm in Warren County. Known for his profound kindness, Marvin was a driving force in the community, receiving the 2009 Chamber of Commerce Citizen of the Year award. His extensive service included leadership roles in numerous organizations, such as the UCDD, UCHRA, and the McMinnville Housing Authority. Marvin was also a faithful member of Hiawassee Church of Christ.

Randy Heady

A proud resident of Jackson County, Tenn., Randy's impact extended far beyond his local community. He served for eight years as a County Commissioner before being elected Jackson County Mayor in 2018, where he represented the county's interests with passion and integrity. Randy was known for chairing numerous committees, advocating tirelessly for regional progress. Beyond his civic duties, Randy built a 28-year career with Carwile Mechanical in Cookeville, Tenn., and served as the devoted Pastor for New Hope Baptist Church in Gainesboro, Tenn.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S REPORT

As we contemplate the future, it's natural to reflect on our journey and marvel at the progress we've made. Like many of you, I am consistently impressed when I look back at where we started versus where we stand today. Every year, I am amazed by the scope of programs and services our dedicated staff provides to the Upper Cumberland region.

Over the past five years, we have been at the forefront of regional efforts, leading the way in poverty reduction, providing crucial support for those in need, and strategically planning for the region's future.

This vital work is not accomplished in isolation; we benefit from the tireless efforts of our many partner agencies, who work alongside us to improve the lives of our citizens. Furthermore, this success would be impossible without the essential oversight and unwavering support from the region's elected officials.

Looking ahead to 2026, while the specifics are uncertain, I have absolute confidence that I will once again be astonished by how much farther we have come.

MARK FARLEY

Executive Director
UCDD and UCHRA

Since 2018, the Upper Cumberland Development District (UCDD) and the Upper Cumberland Human Resource Agency (UCHRA) have operated under a shared management agreement, guided by one unified Executive Director and shared administrative and finance teams.

While each agency remains distinct, maintaining its own programs, responsibilities, and service areas within the 14-county Upper Cumberland region, UCDD and UCHRA share the same mission and vision for the communities they serve.

Together, these agencies provide vital services and support to the more than 378,000 people who call the region home.

OUR VISION:

A region abundant in resources, fostering a productive and vibrant life for the people of the Upper Cumberland.

OUR MISSION:

To help the Upper Cumberland region cultivate self-sufficiency and build true wealth through innovation, collaboration, and leadership.

OUR TEAM

At the Upper Cumberland Development District (UCDD) and the Upper Cumberland Human Resource Agency (UCHRA), our mission is rooted in a shared commitment to helping people thrive. Together, our dedicated team provides a comprehensive network of services that supports individuals, families, businesses, and communities across the Upper Cumberland.

From aging and disability support to housing, community development, economic development, small business assistance, public transportation, community intervention, family services, and recovery support, our agencies work together to meet the region’s evolving needs. We are proud to introduce the leadership team guiding this work and ensuring our programs remain effective and focused on improving the quality of life for those we serve. Their vision, experience, and commitment to public service shape our direction and empower our staff to deliver meaningful, lasting change across the region.

ABOUT US

At UCDD and UCHRA, we are passionate about helping people.

Through our wide array of services, we connect individuals, families, businesses, and local officials with the resources they need to improve their quality of life. Combined, UCDD and UCHRA employ approximately 440 of the region's most passionate and skilled individuals to better meet the needs of the Upper Cumberland.

UCDD is designated by the Tennessee Department of Disability and Aging as the Area Agency on Aging and Disability (AAAD) to advocate, plan, and coordinate a service delivery system that meets community and social service needs. The AAAD strives for the Upper Cumberland's older adults, adults with physical disabilities, and caregivers to achieve and maintain active, healthy, and independent lives.

The Economic Development and Lending department works with community leaders to secure grant funds primarily for industrial development, as well as offering loans to small businesses seeking to expand and create jobs. Our team, along with other key stakeholders, also works to engage legislators on the urgent need for quality childcare in the Upper Cumberland, highlighting how early education investments strengthen families and workforce development.

UCDD offers a variety of Planning & Community Development services to communities across the region, including grant writing, administration, and technical assistance related to land use and zoning, solid waste, historic preservation, and housing. UCDD provides data collection and analysis. These services are often used for planning, grant applications, presentations, and publications.

UCDD also staffs the Small Business Development Center (SBDC), which provides free counseling, technical support, and connections to financing, including the business development loan fund through UCDD.

The Economic Development and Lending department has also partnered with Empower Upper Cumberland as a core partner focused on removing barriers to entering the workforce and advancing families' economic standing.

UCDD's Housing and Family Services team provides affordable housing to low-income seniors, individuals with disabilities, and transitional housing for those in recovery. The department also administers programs that provide support to relative caregivers and housing repairs to those in need.

UCDD's Housing and Family Services' recovery housing program was recognized during the National Association of Development Organizations' conference.

UCHRA offers a variety of Public Transportation services, from door-to-door rides, scheduled shuttle services, inner-city bus routes, and driver education. The transportation call center uses innovation and technology to find the “right fit” solution for customers, allowing riders to quickly and easily schedule a trip and simply enjoy the ride to their destination.

UCHRA’s Community Intervention department provides alternatives to incarceration for juvenile and adult offenders, corrective education programs, and residential programs for troubled youth. The department also offers a DUI school (Putnam County only) and oversees the day reporting center program.

Day reporting centers (DRCs) provide supervision and services in 12 Upper Cumberland counties, offering a variety of programs and services designed to address rehabilitation, supervision, treatment, education, programming, and re-entry services through a carefully designed curriculum.

The UC Recovery team offers a comprehensive list of support services to clients, including transitional housing, workforce re-entry, transportation, and case management.

The Community Services department oversees several programs that provide support to vulnerable populations, including home energy assistance through utility payments (LIHEAP), home weatherization assistance, an affordable home repair service for seniors (HouseCall), in-home care, childcare nutrition (CACFP) job training for individuals age 55 and older (SCSEP), sales of Ensure and Glucerna at local county offices, and an early childhood development program, Van Buren County Head Start.

UCHRA staffs an office in each Upper Cumberland county, providing access to the programs described above through personal service and community outreach. Clients receive hands-on assistance with applications and information.

Led by UCHRA, the designated backbone organization, Empower UC is tasked with serving the most vulnerable populations of the 14-county Upper Cumberland region with a core objective of lifting 1,600 children and their families out of generational poverty. ■

UCHRA's Public Transportation team made the Upper Cumberland proud during the statewide Tennessee Public Transportation Association (TPTA) Rodeo and Conference, an annual event that celebrates excellence, skill, and leadership in public transit across Tennessee.

Winners of the local Upper Cumberland Rodeo went on to compete during the statewide conference and driving competition.

Two UCHRA team members were recognized for their achievements. Joe Bitter earned second place in the Van Mechanic Division, demonstrating his technical expertise and commitment to vehicle safety and performance. Holly Montooth was named Rural Executive or Manager of the Year, a distinction recognizing her leadership, dedication, and contributions to rural transit operations in the Upper Cumberland region. ■

LEGISLATORS OF THE YEAR

Representative Kelly Keisling

Since 2010, Tennessee State Representative Keisling has served District 38, which includes Clay, Macon, Pickett, Scott, and part of Fentress counties. He is a member of several legislative committees, including the Commerce and Judiciary Committees. In addition to his legislative duties, he is the President of Keisling Insurance and actively participates in various Chambers of Commerce and the Children's Center of the Cumberlands. Keisling has been happily married to Janet for more than 50 years and is a proud father of three, grandfather of seven, and great-grandfather of two.

Senator Paul Bailey

Representing District 15, Tennessee State Senator Bailey covers Cumberland, Jackson, Overton, Bledsoe, Putnam, and White counties. He chairs the Commerce and Labor Committee and also serves on the Fiscal Review and Transportation and Safety Committees. Senator Bailey, a lifelong resident of Upper Cumberland, resides on a farm in White County with his wife, Amy, and their son, Caleb. Together with his father, he co-founded CB Trucking, a family business that began with two used trucks and has since grown to employ 100 people. The Bailey family remains actively involved in the business's daily operations.

STARS OF THE UPPER CUMBERLAND

The Stars of the Upper Cumberland initiative, which launched in 2024, celebrates the extraordinary individuals, groups, and organizations whose dedication and service make a lasting impact in their communities. Each year, leaders from all 14 counties select one remarkable honoree from their area, recognizing their commitment, passion, and contributions during the UCDD and UCHRA annual meeting. Together, these Stars shine as examples of the very best in community leadership, selfless service, and the spirit of giving that strengthens the region as a whole. Learn more about the 2025 cohort on the following pages.

The Putnam County Veterans Honor Guard were among the inaugural Stars of the Upper Cumberland.

CANNON COUNTY

ROY SULLIVAN

Roy Sullivan has served as the 911 Director for more than 18 years and is the founding director of the Cannon County 911 Emergency Communications District. In 2008, he centralized dispatch services from the Sheriff's Department. He has also been the EMA Director for eight years and has 24 years of experience as an EMT. Cannon County Executive Greg Mitchell commended Sullivan for his dedication, proactive development efforts, and successful pursuit of grant funding for the community and the EMA department.

CLAY COUNTY

THOMAS WATSON

Thomas Watson began his education at a one-room school, graduated from Celina High School and Middle Tennessee State University, and served as a teacher and basketball coach. After retiring, he became the Technology Coordinator for Clay County Schools, developing the district's fiber network. Later, he was elected Director of ExCeed and appointed Curator of the Historic Clay County Courthouse in 2013. For more than 13 years, he worked on restoring the courthouse, securing grants from various organizations and involving local residents in the Adopt a Window project, significantly preserving this historical landmark.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY

STEVEN STONE

Steve Stone is dedicated to community well-being and advocacy, actively involved in various organizations in Cumberland County and the Upper Cumberland region. His roles include being a member and volunteer at Cumberland Fellowship Church, a board member of the Cumberland County Foster Care Board, Cumberland Good Samaritans, Cumberland Prevention Coalition, and Trauma-Informed Community Alliance. He is also an appointee to the Tennessee Board of Utility Regulation, a leader at The Fourth Dimension Inc., and a commissioner for Middle Tennessee Gas. Through these positions, he champions vulnerable populations, supports trauma-informed initiatives, enhances utility oversight, and promotes spiritual and civic engagement.

DEKALB COUNTY

DEAN ADCOCK

Dean Adcock, a lifelong Smithville resident, has dedicated his life to hard work and community service. He worked in the garment industry from 1956 to 1975, then spent a decade in the nursery business before becoming a mail courier. A committed volunteer, Dean served with Meals on Wheels, spent 10 years on the Farm Bureau Board, and was an eight-year DeKalb County Commissioner. He helped establish the Live and Let Live homeless shelter in 2019 and continues to lead its efforts, emphasizing the need for volunteers.

FENTRESS COUNTY

BILLY JENNINGS, SR

Billy Jennings Sr. made a significant impact in Fentress County when he acquired Jennings Funeral Home in April 1977. That same year, he initiated a service through the Red Cross for veterans and deployed service members, ensuring that their families were acknowledged during difficult times. He has served on the E911 Board for Fentress County and has been a dedicated member of West Fentress Baptist Church since 1977. In late 2025, he proudly received his Masonic 50-year pin, further highlighting his commitment to the community. His contributions have truly made him an invaluable asset to Fentress County for many years.

JACKSON COUNTY

KEITH BEAN

Keith Bean plays a pivotal role in Jackson County, where he serves as the Director of Emergency Medical Services (EMS) and Emergency Management Agency (EMA). In addition to these critical responsibilities, he is also a dedicated death investigator for the county. His commitment to public safety extends further as he holds the esteemed position of Chief at the Dodson Branch Volunteer Fire Department. Through his unwavering leadership and dedication during significant events in Jackson County, Keith has proven himself to be an invaluable asset to the community. His comprehensive expertise and steadfast commitment to serving the public ensure that the residents of Jackson County are in capable and caring hands.

MACON COUNTY

STEVE WALKER

Steve Walker began his career in 1982 as the 4-H agent for the University of Tennessee Agriculture Extension Service in Macon County, where he helped establish the Macon County Fair and served on its board for 30 years. He later promoted agriculture for local farmers and contributed to various community initiatives, including the 911 committee and the Chamber of Commerce. After 33 years of service, he retired and now enjoys a quieter life on his hobby farm, Autumn Chase, with his wife, Beverly, and their two daughters and five grandchildren. Steve values his community contributions and continues to stay active in his faith and family.

OVERTON COUNTY

CARL MASTERS

At 95, Carl Masters is a respected community figure in Overton County, known for his service and integrity. A U.S. Army veteran and lifelong resident, he served from 1951-1953 and spent 29 years with the Tennessee Department of Human Services, including as Overton County Director. His work in the 1960s significantly improved local families' lives. Masters has published a memoir, Footpaths and Foot Logs – Life History of Carl Masters, in 2020, and is a devoted community member, never missing a Veterans Day program. He and his wife, Ethel, have two sons.

PICKETT COUNTY

GARY AND DEBBIE HILL

Gary and Debbie Hill embody hard work, family values, and community involvement. Gary, a Byrdstown native and industrial engineering graduate, has worked with several companies, while Debbie, originally from South Carolina, became a nurse and hospice administrator. After retiring to the Bates Boy Farm in Byrdstown, they enjoy country life with various animals. In retirement, they actively give back to the community, with Gary as vice president of the Byrdstown-Pickett County Chamber of Commerce. They participate in local events, demonstrating their commitment to investing in and supporting Pickett County.

PUTNAM COUNTY

MAE FOWLER

Mae Fowler is a key volunteer for The Putnam County Farm Day, a major educational event in Tennessee that involves more than 1,000 students and relies on 250 volunteers. Known for her calm leadership, Mae manages 28 learning stations focused on agriculture. With a background as a teacher and administrator in the Putnam County School System, she has directed the event for eight years, enhancing instruction for first graders about food and resource management. Mae also volunteers with the Heart of the Cumberland grief center and counsels children in local schools. She and her husband, Doug, operate their family farm in Putnam County and have three grown children and seven grandchildren.

SMITH COUNTY

JOHNNY RAY BROWN

Johnny Ray Brown leads the Smith County Youth Mentorship Program, which addresses youth addiction and equips participants with principles for personal success. The program focuses on character building, life skills, and fostering hope, especially for children from high-risk households. It connects home, school, and community, providing consistent mentors who model stability and accountability. Currently, it supports 20-25 elementary-aged children weekly, leading to positive outcomes like reduced negative behaviors, better food stability, improved confidence, and support in breaking substance abuse cycles.

VAN BUREN COUNTY

DARLEEN HUNTER

Darleen Hunter, UCHRA Van Buren County Coordinator and Senior Center Director, is recognized for her exceptional leadership and dedication to the community. She manages the Van Buren County Activity Center, ensuring it serves as a supportive space for local seniors. Her compassion is evident in her efforts to provide hot meals, essential resources, health programs, and social opportunities, significantly enhancing the quality of life for the county's aging population and positively impacting community partnerships.

WARREN COUNTY

GARY PRATER

Gary Prater, a Warren County farmer and entrepreneur, recently celebrated his 70th birthday. He manages 1,000 acres with his brother and owns Prater's Barbecue, established 30 years ago with his late wife, Phyllis. Prater is active in community service, serving as a County Commissioner for 28 years and participating in various organizations. After losing Phyllis in a tragic accident, he created the Phyllis Prater Memorial Scholarship Fund, awarding scholarships to local students. He organized the first Phyllis Prater Steak Cookoff, raising $28,000 for the fund, and plans to continue this annual event to honor her memory and support higher education for students.

WHITE COUNTY

JAMES DOUGLAS

James Douglas, former Manager of Bridgestone Firestone Centennial Wilderness, spent more than 34 years with the organization. A Navy and Coast Guard veteran, he began his state career in 1987 and joined the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency in 1989. Under his leadership, the Wilderness expanded from 4,000 to 20,000 acres, adding trails, campsites, and wildlife fields. Douglas received multiple awards, including Regional Wildlife Officer of the Year. He has also significantly contributed to his community through church construction, coaching, and preserving local history. In retirement, he remains active in his church and continues his commitment to service and conservation.

WORKING TOGETHER

As we reflect on another year of service and influence in the Upper Cumberland, we are reminded that our most significant accomplishments arise from collaboration, commitment, and a unified vision. UCDD and UCHRA remain dedicated to enhancing communities, supporting individuals, and creating opportunities that elevate the quality of life across our 14-county region.

Looking forward, we anticipate exciting initiatives and new opportunities that will emerge, all founded on robust partnerships, innovative ideas, and the steadfast dedication of the individuals and organizations we serve. Together, we will continue to foster meaningful change, empower our communities, and illuminate the limitless potential of the Upper Cumberland.

Join us in making a difference in the Upper Cumberland!
